DESCENDANTS OF JOHN AND MARY (LOBDELL) WHITE.

By John A. Curtis, 1960.

INTRODUCTION.

1944754

"And the Simionites kept a genealogical record."

1 Chronicles 4:33.

The families with which this compilation concerns itself are White, Warren, Lobdell, Haight, in about that order. In an early day these families lived in S. W. Connecticut, along the Hudson, and in New York City; our families were among the earlier English speaking families of this region, especially in Putnam Co., N.Y. Putnam Co. originally was a part of Westchester Co., stretching N. along the prolongation of Broadway. The region was settled from Holland before 1653. In 1730, a Haight is named among the settlers. Our descent through other families such as Rogers, Nelson, Davenport, would be easy to trace, but it would be of small interest to us.

Of the four families named, Haight, and Lobdell families have published genealogies going back clearly to an immigrant ancestor. There are published genealogies of White, and Warren families, especially of the descendants of Perigrine White, born on the Mayflower, and of John Warren, brother of the childless General Joseph Warren. This Warren line is a so-called royal line, tracing back to Gundred, daughter of William the Conqueror. But, though conjecture is easy, neither White nor Warren lines come clear.

Besides a Lobdell genealogy and a Haight genealogy, both modern publications, to which I had access, my written sources have been three; (1) A History of Putnam County, N.Y. published in 1849, especially valuable for Warrens; (2) manuscripts in the possession of the Cold Spring Historical Society, recording the research of Mary Atherton Leach and covering the old families of the region, especially valuable for Haight; (3) A History of Putnam Co., N.Y. by Pelletreau, 1882. For early details Mary (White) Chillson, Elizabeth Messenger and Hannah (White) Wilson have been the best sources.

Those whose lineage is traced in this compilation have been, in general, decent self-respecting, dilligent, people in the middle walks of life. They have had their fair proportion of gifts and achievements. And better still, we have genes which produce in our various lines, persons who by their achievements are entitled to be called geniuses. Such are Jaun T. Trippe, creator and sole operator of Pan American World Airways; Eleanor Remick Warren, famous composer, concert pianist, and accompanist; Charles White Chillson, rocket propulsion engineer, with cognisance of the nation's space satellite reconaissance program. These, and others among us inspire the rest of us to do our best.

The system of numbering employed is to be explained. In the White compilation No. 0 is assigned to John White, No. 0-1 to his elder son and No. 0-2 to his second son. In the Warren compilation, included with little change from the compilation of 1927, No. 0 is assigned to Samuel Warren who married Esther Rogers. To illustrate; No. 0-1-2-7-1, Charles (White) Chillson, is the eldest child of Mary (White) Chillson, No. 0-1-2-7; she is the 7th child of John A. White, No. 0-1-2; he is 2nd child of Uriah Burr White No. 0-1; he is the eldest son of John White, No. 0. The Warren numeration must be read by itself.

Rec'd Apr 6 - 1977

To avoid the labor of preparing a full index of names, 25 names are given. These, with the enumerating numbers, will enable readers to find their way through the compilation. Blank lines are for writing in additional names as needed

No. 0-1 Uriah Burr White, B. Feb. 8, 1811, at Norwalk, Conn.; Nov. 7, 1833, M. Mary Wright Warren; D. Mar. 6, 1890; she B. Mar. 15, 1812, at Tarrytown, N.Y.: D. Jan. 8, 1881; at Mitchelville, Ia., where she is buried; after marriage they lived for some time in New York City, where the first child was born; 1838 they moved near to Warren, Trumbull Co., O., where the remaining children were born; Mr. White had gone in advance and had prepared a log cabin, the usual frontier home; he thought of locating in Ashtabula, O., but chose Warren instead; brought his family from the lake port in an ox wagon; with them came Frances Warren, the fourteen year old sister of Mrs. White, then an orphan, who cared for the 2 year old son Uriah, and in after years remembered his wonderful top hat; when the little blackeyed wife saw the log house, she declared she would not get out, --must be taken back at once!, but she did and they lived there for 20 years; Mr. White was a carpenter and bridgebuilder, working here with Charles Messenger, who later, 1884, married Frances, his wife's sister; this town, Warren, O., appears often as the residence of our people, but it was not named for any of the closely related Warrens; it was named for Moses Warren, member of the original surveying party under the Connecticut Land Co., which purchased the Western Reserve in Ohio; later this Moses Warren was a member of the Committee for the equalization of land values; 1855, after long controversy, the state capitol of Iowa was located "within 2 miles of the junction of Des Moines and Raccoon rivers"; 1857 the father and mother and two oldest sons, 24 and 21 years of age, went to Fort Des Moines, Ia.; he having traded New York timber land for Iowa Prairie Land in Madison Co.; shipped two saw mill installations out and set up a saw mill, about $\frac{1}{4}$ mile north of the east end of the Center Street Dam; (built about 1848 by Edward and Edwin Hall uncles of Samuel M. Curtis; see No. 0-1-4); the Des Moines Saw Mill property included several acres of land and a residence, in which all lived the first winter; that year Mr. White built the first permanent bridge over the Des Moines River on Court Avenue; described by a historian of the time as a slightly structure; collected toll for years to get his pay; used to buy timber on land above Des Moines; fell it and raft it down the river to his saw mill, then bring it in to the mill through a water chute; Mrs. White and the eldest son returned to Warren, O.; she to get ready to move and he to be married there; all were moved in 1858 and settled in a house the father had built on West 9th Street and North Street, where they lived for about 10 years; about 1868 built on the third lot north of Center Street on 7th, where they lived five years; one of these five years the Messengers lived with them; then returned to Ohio; about 1873 built on northwest corner of 7th and Center streets, and lived there about seven years; Abbie Curtis, De Loss White and John Curtis, grand-children whose mothers had died, lived there with the family several years; from his coming to Des Moines Mr. White was a community builder active in business affairs, as bridge builder, general contractor, and investor; 1861 he built the Coon River Bridge in partnership with Dr. M. B. Turner; 1866 they built the second Des Moines river bridge at Court Avenue; the first having been torn away; they owned these bridges till the county bought them; 1869 this bridge also gave way when its wooden piers were unable to resist floating ice in the spring; it was replaced by an iron bridge; 1866; he associated with Dr. Turner, J. S. Polk and Fred M Hubbell in a street railway (horse cars), selling his shares in 1872 to Mrs. Turner; there are many funny incidents of this line, which never paid well; he built Seeburger's Hardware, 5th and Court; drew plans for the (second) court house but did not build it; in 1878 Mr. White, being too old to carry on his' contract business, traded his home on 7th and Center Street, with another house and lot on 8th Street and some land west of Des Moines, for 200 acres of land about 4 miles south of Mitchellville, in the edge of Jasper Co., Ia.; in nine long years of hard work and good management, during which his wife and one daughter died, he was able to dispose of this to good advantage and discharge all his obligations, which was a great satisfaction to him; returned to Des Moines, 1889, and lived at 701 Park Street till his death; U. B. White and family were Episcopals; he was active for 40 years in the work of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Des Moines; being Vestryman most of the time and senior Warden; on Feb. 8th, 1899, just about a year before his death, a group of sixteen of his fellow members, mostly old settlers of Des Moines, and several of them prominent in the city, presented him with a chair as a testimonial of their esteem; his letter of acceptance is a good revelation of the quality of his mind:-

"Messers. J. E. Ryan, Ira Cook, G. M. Hippee and Others: - Your kind note of February 8, and the beautiful and useful chair which bore it company received, and I feel at loss for language in which to express my thanks for your generous remembrance. I am reminded thereby of the early struggles of St. Luke's and the heroic aid given in her support by yourselves and others who have gone to their reward, and of the self-sacrificing efforts many of you made to assist me in the performance of my duties as senior warden. To be thus remembered by those whose regard I cherish so highly is of itself sufficient reward for my feeble service to our common cause. By your generous token my few remaining days will be rendered more bearable, and by this evidence of your respect the last end of my pathway to the grave will be lightened. Again thanking you, believe me to be most sincerely your friend,

U. B. White."

The names accompanying the testimonial were: - J. Evans. Ryan, G. M. Hippee, H. V. Love, E. J. Ingersoll, J. Wyman, E. Mertindale, W. H. Merritt, Seth Graham, Ira Cook, C. B. Worthington, P. M. Casady, J. N. Demey, C. W. Keys, George F. Henry, George B. Hippee, George Crawford, U. B. White had a character for rugged honesty and trustworthiness; my recollections of him as a child and boy are of a constantly cheerful, sunny disposition, on good terms with all so far as might be; he was often singing little snatches as he went about the farm or city home, sometimes jingles which he made up; a frequently trespassing rooster on Center Street was caught and to persuade it not to come back a slice was taken off its comb and its spurs were trimmed with his big, sharp pocket knife; then he threw it over on its own premises with this little song; "A little piece off of his toe nail, And a little piece off of his ear!" The rooster never came back! I sang it over a few times and was never able to forget it; once before I was 5 years old, I let out family secrets, when asked if I chewed tobacco, I answered: "No, I don't chew but Grandpa does and Grandma says its a nasty dirty trick." I was probably carried out on a shovel; but it became a family story at which Grandfather would laugh as loud as anyone.

No. 0-2-3-2-2, Juan T. Trippe, B. 1899; 1928, M. Elizabeth Stettinius; she sister of Edward R. Stettinius, Under Secretary of State, in Roosevelt's administration; his name, Jaun, suggests Spanish origin, and has helped him in Spanish America; but he has no Latin blood, it being the masculine form of the name of a great aunt by marriage; his Trippe ancestors were early settlers in Maryland; The Hill Preparatory School, Pottstown, Pa., gave him his secondary education; 1915, entered Yale, and soon decided to become a flier; 1917 left Yale to join the Naval Air Force; 1919, after the armistice, he returned to Yale and graduated in 1921; in Yale he was active in athletics; 1919 founded the Yale Flying Club and was its first president; after graduation, with some ex-Yale flying friends he bought nine surplus Navy planes for $500.00 and founded a miscellaneous air service about Long Island and for hunters and occasionally for movie shots, which prospered till the planes played out; 1924 he helped start Colonial Air Transportation Co., with $300,000.00 borrowed capital and himself as managing director; they had a contract to carry mail between New York and Boston; alarmed by his daring proposals, the board of directors ousted Trippe, 1927 founded Pan Am. with himself in sole command, and never again was second; from then he made steady progress toward dominating the commercial aviation of the world; 1928 Pan Am. flew passengers and mail to the entire Caribbean area; soon they covered S. America, then he spanned the Atlantic and the Pacific; when he dealt with the Portuguese for landing rights in W. Africa, he bargained for similar rights in Macao, near Hongkong, where the British were hesitating; unwilling to be left out, they gave him full rights at Hongkong instead; Australia and New Zealand also received him to full privileges; now his Pan American World Airways covers India, the Near East, and Japan; 1950 he was making every effort to combine all Atlantic lines under Pan Am., leaving Pacific traffic to other lines, using the argument that thus the government would save $9,000,000; his progress owes much to his versatile and skillful use of diplomacy in dealing with governments and other companies; several times he arranged for landing rights and equipment and made his bid for carrying mail the maximum allowed by the postal authorities, instead of the minimum, before bringing the business before his board of managers, justifying the highest rate by reliable service; this diplomacy has succeeded in almost every instance; his usefulness to the U. S. and our allies, widely recognized, is due to his personal skill and to the fact that he is quite separate from both civil and military authorities; Trippe works 90 hours a week, drives his own car and commutes about New York, piloting his own monoplane; besides offices in New York and Washington he and his family have an apartment in N. Y. City and houses in E. Hampton, L.I., and Greenwich; he never learned Spanish or Portuguese and never made but one trip to South America; all in all he is among the truly great men of our time

RECORD OF SAMUEL WARREN WHO MARRIED ESTHER RODGERS.

It is included here as it stands in my compilation of 1926, with Samuel Warren as No. 0. His descent from the John Warren who came to New England in 1630 could not be traced by professional genealogists. Neither is it disproved.

No. 0, Samuel Warren, B. _____; D. 1774 or 1775 by falling through an open space in Franklindale Bridge Putnam Co., N. Y., as he drove his team over it; buried in an unmarked grave in the orchard of his farmstead in Phillips Twp.; about 1764 M. Esther Rogers, dau. of John and Hester (Verpeeler) Rogers, possibly of Continental Village, Putnam Co.; Samuel Warren was a Supervisor of what is now Phillipstown, N. Y.; 1771-1775 he was taxed; 1775 "Samuel Warren's farm" is taxed, from which we may infer the approximate date of his death; two houses connected with Samuel and Esther (Rogers) Warren are listed among Revolutionary houses still standing; in the history of Putnam Co. (1849), No. 3 of the list; "The old house where Cornelius Haight now lived, on the old post Road (prolongation of Broadway to Fiskill), about a mile south of Nelson's Mill; it was built by John Rogers, and occupied by him during the French and Revolutionary War."

No. 7 (same list); "A certain house on the hill south of Nelson's Mill. It was occupied during the Revolution by Samuel Warren, grandfather of the Hon. Cornelius Warren and Sylvester Warren."

This second house was the Samuel Warren Homestead. On Erskin's military map of 1781 it is marked as Nelson's Tavern, and the change of name is explained by the after history of Esther (Rogers) Warren. After her first husband's death she removed for a time to Peekskill, Westchester Co. as is shown by a notice from the "N. Y. State Gazette and Weekly Mercury" under date of June 12, 1775;-- "Mrs. Warren, who formerly lived in the Highlands on the E. side of the Hudson River, is removed to the house at Peekskill where Mrs. Charles Moore lately lived: where all Gentleman Travellers and others may expect the best entertainment". Before Nov. 5, 1776, the date of her father John Roger's will, she M. 2nd Absalom Nelson, and they lived on the Warren homestead, keeping tavern there. Washington and his staff are said frequently to have stopped there. The place thus lost the name of Warren and we have Nelson's Tavern, Nelson's Mill, Nelson's Pond, Nelson's Corners; this latter where the Old Highland Turnpike to Fiskill and the Old Post Road, both leading north, join. This is eight to twelve miles E. and S. of Cold Spring. There is a country club at Nelson's Corner. Some miles north are the Haight Place and Knapp place now owned by Police Commissioner Waldo; and some miles still farther north is Davenport's Corners, all suggestive of families connected with this record. Esther (Rogers) (Warren) Nelson was living June 19, 1784; there is no clear record of any children by Absalom Nelson, though Justus Nelson Esq., is said to have resided across the road from her son John Warren; this Justus may or may not have been her son by her second husband.

No. O-1, (Capt.) John Warren, B. Mar. 15, 1765 at Highlands on the Hudson; D. Sept. 1, 1837 at the same place; _____ 1782, M. Sarah Nelson, dau. of Justus and Mary (Haight) Nelson; she B. Jan. 1, 1766; D. Nov. 2, 1833; both John and Sarah are buried in St. Phillips Churchyard at Garrison's. There is an interesting sketch of this young couple (17 yrs. and 16 yrs. respectively) in the history of Putnam Co. pp. 233 and following. For some years they lived in a log house which stood in a corner of an orchard, across the road and opposite to the residence of Justus Nelson Esq., his father-in-law, which he (John) also built, with the grist mill attached to the same property. His farm contained 300 acres. Just how these farms were related to Nelson's his father Samuel Warren's estate, is not stated.

He learned the blacksmith trade with Peter Warren, Esq.; (his uncle), who lived in Cold Spring, and apparently he worked at this as well as at building. The first knives and forks they had when he commenced keeping house he made in his own blacksmith shop. Shortly afterwards, needing a pair of trousers, he asked a Peekskill merchant to trust him for the cloth, but was refused. Thereupon he told his friends he had made up his mind that the best policy for a man was, "Pay as you go," and never asked for credit again. During his entire life he never sued nor was sued by any person. He began poor and died rich and free from debt, all obtained through hard work. In 1804 he built the house at Warren's Landing, opposite to West Point, a little to the west of Constitution Island.

In the Cold Spring M. SS. he is called Capt. John Warren. He might have served in the war of 1812, at 47 yrs. of age, or he might have been a militia Captain. It is unlikely that he was the John Warren who enlisted in the Revolutionary Army for 9 mo. in 1778, for then he would have been only 13 years old. The history of Putnam Co., has no reference to his military service.

He executed a will Jan. 28, 1837, 8 mo. before his death, which contains interesting references to his children and grandchildren. It is of interest to note that three of his children married sons or daughters of Isaac and Elizabeth (Rustis) Davenport, and two of his sons, Samuel and Cornelius, married daughters of Daniel and Martha (Fowler) Haight. These marriages within a narrow range seem to characterize this community.

Their granddaughter Frances (Warren) Messenger used to tell of visiting their home in the Highlands when a child, coming with her sisters from their home in New York City; her grandmother used to set them to work so hard that they would all scamper away. Miss Elizabeth Messenger of Cleveland has a beautiful walnut table which they inherited from Sarah (Nelson) Warren.

The sketch of his life ends thus: "He aspired to no higher distinction than that of a plain, practical farmer, which he was. The purity of his motives and the honesty of his heart were never questioned; and in all the relations of life he never gave just cause of offense to his neighbor. He died, regreted and beloved by all who knew him, in 1837, in the 72nd year of his age. His children, so far as we know them, inherit his virtues."

Ph. at Hiram College, Ohio; employed in U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue; in the National Bank of Commerce, Cleveland, rising to important position by 1898, when he removed to Los Angeles; partner with A. A. Bailey and independently in several lines of business, with paints and oils, storage warehouse, mill and industrial supplies, real estate development; he was a director of The National Bank, The Guaranty Trust and Savings Bank, the Security-First National Bank, the Lyon Van and Storage Co., the Central Investment Corp, which owns the Baltimore Hotel; he was incorporator and director of the Lyon Fire Proof Storage Co., president and director of the Ferguson Hotel Co., associate member of the Los Angeles Realty Board, active in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the Down Town Business Men's Ass'n; he was a member of the Rotary, of the University Club, and of the Wiltshire and Los Angeles Country Club, in politics he is a Republican; for many years interested in Educational, civic and religious undertakings, such as Community Chest and Y.M.C.A., serving as director of the Y. from his early days in L. A. and as president for 8 years, also a member of Y. International Committee, he was trustee of Occidental College and of Chapman College and helped a number to get college and professional training, among them loaning money to the singer Lawrence Tibbets for advanced training.

Both his wife and he were lovers of good music. She was an accomplished pianist and patroness of musical events. Also she was an architect and designed their beautiful house in L. A. He studied voice in Cleveland and sang in choirs and glee clubs. In L. A. he founded a Y.M.C.A. glee club which evolved into the Ellis Orphius Club. Of this he was president 14 years and continued as honorary president.

Mrs. Warren was a Presbyterian and especially active in Y.W.C.A. James was a church man rather than a club man. He was an active member both in Cleveland and L. A. of the Disciples of Christ denomination, and held responsible offices. Also it was the church of President James A. Garfield who gave him his name and was his life long friend. James Warren once visited the old Warren homestead and bought from the house a substantial chair, in which he was told Washington might have sat. Garfield, long before he became President, used to sit and say, "I never may sit in the President's chair, but at least I can sit in this chair in which the first President sat."

1. Elinor Remick Warren B. _____ 1906 See p. below

No. 0-1-3-6-3-1, Elinor Remick Warren, B. Feb. 23, 1906; M. Z. Wayne Griffin, a graduate of Oregon State University; he is a prominent business man and civic leader of So. California; Elinor is a graduate of the Westlake School for Girls, L. A.; her musical gifts were manifested at the age of five, and after graduation from Westlake she continued study of composition in New York City under the best teachers. Later she studied in Paris with Nadia Boulanger. Her compositions were first published while she was still in high school.

In 1936, at N. Y. City, her cantata, "The Harp Weaver", was produced. In 1940 her symphonic poem, The Passing of King Arthur, was first performed in Los Angeles by the L. A. Philharmonic Orchestra and broadcasted over the United States and Europe. At that time she had 100 published works, including songs, quartets and quintets, besides the cantata and symphony above.

Alone, and with other artists, she has given piano concerts in which her own compositions are featured. She has acted as accompanist for well known singers, including Lawrence Tibbet, Richard Crooks, Lucretia Bori, Easton, Metseneur, Stuckgold.

During 1959, her new work, Abram and Sarai, was produced in Northwestern University as solo-cantata with orchestra. During the same year, works of hers were performed as follows:- Suite for Orchestra, a symphonic work in four movements, on W. N. Y. C., New York; the aria King Arthur's Farewell, from the Passing of King Arthur, in Chicago; her tone-poem, The Crystal Lake, played by orchestra at Muncie, Ind. and later the same at Tucson, Arizona. At this time she was interviewed on a T.V. program and was guest of honor at a luncheon given by S.A.I. Alumnae. Later at the same place she lectured on composition and previewed her Crystal Lake. At San Diego, at the Biennial Convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs, three of her compositions were performed, Spring Morning in the Hills, The Heart of Night, and a choral Grace. At the opening of The Redland Bowl, June 30th was Elinor Remick Warren Night, with her as guest of honor. Three of her compositions were performed, with her at the piano for White Horses of the Sea. For the third time in the last three years, a major work, The Harp Weaver, was presented at Wichita, Kansas. A group of her songs, Sailing Homeward, Mr. Nobody, and Heather, was presented at the S.A.I. National Convention, San Francisco. At this time she participated in the Composers' Panel.

During 1959 her song, The Christmas Candle, was recorded on a L.P. record entitled, Christ is Born.

Wherever music is studied or performed, her professional name, Elinor Remick Warren, is known and highly respected. Concert goers expect it on their programs. Music students study her pieces. Her songs and pieces for the piano are used by many artists. And her fame and standing was honestly earned.

Whether she employs her creative art as composer or performer, she is an industrious, persistent, dedicated perfectionist. She spends hours in practice and composition. She worked 5 years to write King Arthur, till it suited her exacting taste. In early 1960, she is in Colombo, Ceylon, at the peak of her powers, for a well earned trip around the world. She has won the praise of a host of friends and admirers. She has many years before her in which to enrich the world of music.

The unique place won by this remarkable woman brings honor to her sex, to her distinguished parents and to the wider group whose records make up this compilation.
